Ever since we started working with Staub, it has been an easy process. From their website to choosing from their great assortment of products, the experience has been nothing short of excellent. The best thing about Staub is that they have a team who cares about their customers and honors their word. If we need something, we know that we will be looked after without a problem. This in turn helps us service our customers better and we have the confidence to know we can rely on Staub for whatever we may need. The Staub website is fantastic. It is easy, accurate and there is a lot of great products. They are always bringing something new to the table and we have been able to add so many more products to our tool box for different elements of the job. It is easy to get prices and stock levels and relay that back to the customer quickly. Staub is a personal, forward thinking company that values their customers and invests the time to build lasting relationships. We have built a great relationship with the Staub team and are excited for what the future holds.

Our relationship with Staub is much more than just purchasing products from a distributor. With Staub we get and can consistently expect immediate service, sales support, system building guidance and next day shipping. One of Staub's greatest qualities is their constant push to keep dealers in the loop of new and upcoming products and also encouraging dealers to keep up with current trends in the market. Thanks to Staub we have been introduced to some amazing brands such as URC Total Control and Episode Speakers. I feel quite lucky to have come across a company like Staub and look forward to increasing sales and opportunities with our partnership.
